

Join us for a celebration a quarter of a century in the making!

On February 27, 1997, Jon Shure incorporated a fledgling think tank named New Jersey Policy Perspective. From a one-person operation run out of a home office and post office box, NJPP has grown tremendously in scope and reach: releasing hundreds of reports and briefs; meaningfully engaging with partners, advocates, and legislators across the state; and helping shape the state's most pressing debates through strategic communications.

Together, we have come so far and accomplished so much to build a more equitable Garden State. NJPP has been at the forefront of efforts to secure a thriving future for everyone in our state — from a $15 minimum wage, to paid sick leave, to higher-quality and more affordable health care, to pay equity, and beyond. But no matter how much progress we have made, drastic disparities still persist along the lines of race, ethnicity, gender, and sexual orientation. The past two and a half decades are truly just the beginning.

We're proud of NJPP's accomplishments and the reputation for rock-solid research and policy ideas built over these 25 years. We have become a trusted resource whose influence spans from the grassroots, to the Legislature, to the governor's office and even beyond our state's borders. By sponsoring our silver anniversary year, you can help ensure that NJPP's work to advance economic justice and racial equity will continue for the next 25 years and beyond.

25th Anniversary sponsors will be invited to an array of exclusive online and in-person gatherings, as well as policy briefings with NJPP leadership and analysts, and will be recognized online and in a variety of print materials. The celebration will culminate with two major, in-person events:

25th Anniversary Gala
September 22, 2022

Progress 2022 Conference
September 23, 2022

Progress 2022: Justice for All will feature speakers, plenaries, and panelists that highlight the diversity of the progressive landscape in New Jersey. And we are proud to announce that the 25th Anniversary Gala will honor the contributions of three remarkable leaders: Governor James J. Florio; labor advocate and former State Director of Communications Workers of America, Hetty Rosenstein; and Michellene Davis, policy expert, former New Jersey State Treasurer, and President and CEO of National Medical Fellowships.

All sponsors — regardless of level — will enjoy advance access to new research and reports and invitations to join NJPP staff for special briefings across the year. All sponsors will be recognized in NJPP newsletters, e-blasts, and event-related social media posts, and 25th Anniversary Gala and Progress 2022 press releases, and will receive spoken recognition at events.

To guarantee inclusion in the printed invitation, sponsorship pledges must be received by June 2, 2022. To learn more, please visit njpp.org/celebrate25 or contact Jennifer Fekete-Donners, Development Director, at jennifer@njpp.org.
